Teapigs Honeybush and Rooibos is the South African plant tea duo, both indigenous Cape herbs, both caffeine free, both naturally sweet. Honeybush adds richer flavour to the more familiar rooibos base. The result is one of the most pleasant caffeine free everyday teas. Particularly good for evening drinking, pregnant women, and rooibos curious drinkers wanting more depth.

What is honeybush?

Honeybush (Cyclopia genistoides and related species) is indigenous to South Africa's Western Cape, related to rooibos but distinct. The flavour is sweeter and more honey like than rooibos, hence the name.

Like rooibos, honeybush is:

- Caffeine free.
- Naturally sweet.
- Low in tannins (no astringency).
- Antioxidant rich.

Honeybush is less commercially developed than rooibos but is gaining recognition.

Teapigs Honeybush and Rooibos contains:

- Rooibos.
- Honeybush.
- Sometimes additional spices (cinnamon, cardamom).

The combination delivers richer, more nuanced flavour than rooibos alone.

- Aroma: Honey floral with rooibos earthiness.
- First sip: Naturally sweet (more so than rooibos alone).
- Mid cup: Honey like notes from honeybush; warmth from rooibos.
- Finish: Smooth, soft, lingering sweetness.
- With milk: Excellent, a richer, sweeter alternative to standard British tea with milk.

2. Strain. Drink chilled with ice.

Latte version
