Twinings Calm is a chamomile based wellness blend with vanilla and warming spice notes, gentler than dedicated sleep blends, sweeter than pure chamomile. Mid day calming or evening wind down without committing to a full sleep tea. The vanilla character makes it accessible to drinkers who find pure chamomile too austere; the cinnamon adds a mild thermogenic warmth that suits autumn and winter drinking. Mainstream pricing, broad supermarket distribution.

The blend

Chamomile flower (the calming base, apigenin), natural vanilla flavour (the comforting top note), cinnamon bark (warmth + mild blood sugar effect), occasionally cardamom and a touch of orange peel depending on batch. The vanilla and spice layer is what differentiates Calm from Twinings' plain chamomile blends; same chamomile core, more flavour interest.

How it tastes

Vanilla sweet on the front, chamomile floral underneath, cinnamon warmth on the finish. More like a comforting pudding flavoured tea than a clinical sleep aid, which is the point. Drinkers who add vanilla and a sprinkle of cinnamon to their bedtime drink anyway can skip this and use a plain chamomile with home additions. Curator Rating: 4.9/5.

How to brew

1. 1 bag in 200ml just boiled water.
2. Cover the cup; vanilla aromatics are volatile.
3. Steep 5-7 minutes.
4. Drink black; a splash of warm milk or oat milk turns this into a pudding like late night drink.
5. Honey is fine if you want it sweeter, though the vanilla already gives perceived sweetness.
