Twinings Lemon Green Tea combines green tea with lemon peel and natural lemon flavouring, one of the classic green-tea pairings. The lemon softens green tea's vegetal character and brightens the cup, especially on a sluggish morning. Excellent as a daily cup, a summer iced drink or a mid-morning lift. Mainstream pricing.

A Chinese green tea base (typically Chunmee style), dried lemon peel, natural lemon flavouring, and occasionally a touch of lemongrass for extra citrus brightness. Lemon and green tea is one of the most popular tea formulations in the world; this is Twinings' supermarket version of it.

Bright lemon hits first, green-tea grassiness sits underneath, and a lemon-zest note closes the cup. Cleaner and more refreshing than plain green tea, and a good gateway green for drinkers who find pure green too austere. Curator Rating: 4.9/5.

How to brew

1. 1 bag in 200ml water at about 80°C, not boiling.
2. Cover the cup; lemon and green-tea aromatics are both volatile.
3. Steep 2 to 3 minutes only.
4. Drink black; honey is fine, milk muddies the citrus.
5. For more citrus, add a fresh lemon slice on top.
6. For iced: cold brew 4 bags in 1 litre of water with a lemon slice, fridge 6 to 8 hours, serve over ice.

Why lemon and green tea work

This pairing is genuine chemistry, not just habit. Green tea is clean, vegetal and slightly astringent; lemon's acidity brightens the aroma while its sourness softens the perception of astringency, so a brisk green reads rounder and more refreshing with lemon than without. That is why this specific combination has outlasted countless trend flavours and remains a sensible everyday default.

The bottom line

A genuinely well-matched, enduring everyday pairing: the citrus rescues a slightly brisk green, and the green gives the lemon something to sit on. Brew it off the boil and short so it stays sweet rather than bitter; it is superb iced, brewed strong over plenty of ice as a sugar-free alternative to bottled lemon iced tea.
