Twinings Mango and Lychee Green Tea combines tropical mango and floral lychee with a Chinese green tea base. A distinctive, Asian-influenced flavour (both are signature South East Asian fruits), excellent cold-brewed, and a good fit for midday work cups and Asian-food pairings. Caffeinated (20 to 30mg per cup); mainstream pricing.

The blend

A Chinese green tea base (the caffeine and L-theanine source), mango pieces, lychee flavour, and occasionally fruit petals or garnish depending on batch. The lychee is delivered mostly via flavouring (real lychee does not dry-blend well); the mango uses real dried fruit pieces.

How it tastes

Tropical mango leads, sweet and lush; floral lychee follows, delicate and slightly perfumed; the grassy green base sits underneath. The lychee is what sets this apart from a simple mango green tea, and the floral note plays against the vegetal base in a way reminiscent of bubble tea bases. Curator Rating: 4.9/5.

How to brew

1. 1 bag in 200ml water at about 80°C, not boiling.
2. Cover the cup; both fruits' aromatics are very volatile.
3. Steep 2 to 3 minutes only; the green base over-extracts quickly.
4. Drink black; honey is fine but unnecessary.
5. For iced: cold brew 4 bags in 1 litre of water, fridge 6 to 8 hours, serve over ice.
6. For a bubble-tea base: cold brew strong, then mix with cooked tapioca pearls and a splash of milk.

Use cases

- Summer iced drinking; it is excellent cold-brewed.
- A midday work green with fruit interest.
- Pairing with Cantonese, Thai, Vietnamese or Singaporean food.
- A homemade bubble-tea-style base.
- A swap for sugary tropical soft drinks.
- Variety in a green-tea rotation alongside Pure Green and Lemon Green.

This blend is genuinely at its best cold. Mango and lychee read cleanest in a chilled cup, where the green stays crisp and the fruit floats on top. Cold-brew it (one bag per 200 to 250ml, fridge 6 to 12 hours) for the smoothest result, or flash-chill it (brew double-strength hot, then pour over a glass packed with ice) when you want it now. Hot, it is a perfectly pleasant light cup; iced is where it shines.

The bottom line

A bright tropical-fruit green: mango and lychee over a Chinese green base, light and fruity. It is fine hot, but genuinely good iced, so treat it as a refresher and a cheap, sugar-free alternative to a bottled cooler. Brew it off the boil and short, or strong-and-chilled for ice.
