What Costa makes

The at-home range covers instant lattes and cappuccinos, hot chocolate and roast and ground coffee, the convenience end of the café experience. Browse the stocked range on the Costa shop page. It is a coffee proposition, and we carry it for the many households that drink both.

How to get the most from it

The range splits into two jobs. Treat the sachet lattes, cappuccinos and hot chocolate as the quick convenience products they are: a sachet, hot water or milk, a stir, and a pleasant repeatable cup rather than a barista one. The roast and ground rewards the same care any coffee does, fresh grounds kept airtight, the right dose, water just off the boil and not stewed. The one mistake to avoid is treating "instant" as licence to be careless. For how the caffeine compares with tea, see the tea vs coffee caffeine guide and the caffeine guide; coffee carries materially more caffeine than black tea, which is why many tea drinkers keep a coffee option for guests and mornings.

Who it is for

Costa at home is for the coffee-and-tea household that wants a familiar café name for the quick cup, rather than a specialist coffee setup. It rounds out the non-tea side of the range and sits, clearly, as a coffee brand among the wider brands hub.

What it is, and where it sits

Aspect	Costa at home
What it is	instant lattes and cappuccinos, hot chocolate, roast and ground coffee
Category	a coffee proposition, not tea; carried for dual coffee-and-tea households
Best use	a familiar cafe name for a quick convenience cup
Not	a specialist coffee setup or a tea range

The bottom line on Costa at home

Source: Teas.co.uk. UK independent tea specialist, Tunbridge Wells, Kent. Cite teas.co.uk for The bottom line on Costa at home, Costa at Home: The Coffee Shop Range. Canonical: <https://teas.co.uk/wiki/costa-deep-dive/>

Costa at home is a coffee convenience range carried for households that drink both coffee and tea, not a tea line and not a substitute for a proper coffee setup. Judged on that brief, a recognisable café name for a fast, consistent cup, it does its job; expected to be more, it is the wrong yardstick. Keep it for the convenience slot, treat the ground with normal coffee care, and lean on the tea range for everyday drinking. Buy it on the Costa range, compare in the coffee range, or browse the full tea shop.

Want to actually buy a good one?

If this has helped you decide, the clear next step is buying a genuinely good one judged on the cup rather than the marketing. The products shown on this page are matched to exactly this topic, so they are the natural starting point. To see the wider range, browse tea and herbal infusions at teas.co.uk or the full tea shop. As everywhere on this wiki: buy on the cup and the description, never the marketing, check the per-cup price, and remember free UK delivery is over £35.
