Coffee Flavoured Whipped Cream

From the teas.co.uk wiki

This is a handy one to know: a coffee-flavoured whipped cream that pipes or spoons onto all sorts of things, from hot chocolate and brownies to sponge puddings and pancakes. The key is to dissolve the coffee in a tiny amount of water first, so it spreads evenly through the cream without watering it down, and to make sure it is cool before it meets the cold cream.

Whip it just to firm peaks and no further. Makes enough for a cake, a batch of fairy cakes or several drinks.
