How to Brew Green Mint Tea

From the teas.co.uk wiki

Mint and green tea is the pairing behind Morocco's famous mint tea, and it is just as good from a single bag at home. Green tea still wants cooler water, around 80C rather than boiling, and a short steep to stop it turning harsh. After that it is up to you: drink it clean and bright, drop in a few fresh mint leaves for extra punch, or take it the Moroccan way with a little sugar. A proper reviver after a heavy meal.
