

Green Tea Gin Cooler

From the Teas.co.uk wiki

Green Tea Gin Cooler is a long, crisp cocktail that uses cooled green tea as its base, so the botanicals in the gin meet a smooth, slightly grassy backbone rather than just tonic. Lemon and a little honey syrup sharpen it up, and soda keeps it light enough to drink in the sun.

Serves one. Brew the green at 80C and chill it well first, the same care you would give a plain cup, because a bitter brew shows through even in a cocktail. To make it alcohol-free, drop the gin and lengthen it with more soda and a few slices of cucumber.
